

December Swap

Saturday, 12 January 2008

Last Month I signed up to participate in the "sister swap" hosted by Home School Blog Awards . I swapped with Jocelyn and she hit on all my favorite things!

The generously sized mug is perfect for my hot beverages. In my profile, I had indicated that I drink a lot of coffee. Lots. Of. Coffee. Turns out, beginning January 1st I quit drinking coffee. (Oh, come on...I felt the concussion as all of you who know me collectively fell off your chairs.) Truth is, I had been drinking way too much coffee, so I decided to fast from drinking it for a month. That's another story, though. This vessel dispenses green tea, just as well!

I also mentioned that I love candles. Coffee and candles; Jocelyn struck another chord by sending me a yummy Hazelnut coffee scented candle. Mmmmm.

Speaking of Mmmmm, she also made some gourmet chocolate stirring spoons and filled the mug with assorted candies.

Ah! Spoiled me, she did; thank you sweet Jocelyn!

I think I'll do this again.